

Concerned about your child's speech and language skills?

Text TALK to 274-448 today.

The American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA) and Bright by Text have teamed up to provide expert resources and tips for parents and caregivers of children 2–6 years of age.

By texting TALK, you'll receive timely text messages about:

- Expected speech and language milestones,
- Warning signs of a speech or language delay or disorder,
- Suggested activities for encouraging speech and language development at home,
- Messages of support and encouragement, and
- Information on how to get connected with professional help and treatment.

The messages are:

- Timed to your child's exact age,
- Available in both English and Spanish, and
- Free and private (your information will never be shared).

Speech and language disorders are among the most common conditions that children experience, but they are also highly treatable!

Sign up by texting TALK to 274-448. You'll learn more about how you can support your child's communication development and health, setting them up for a bright future.
